Teacher Tip of the Month

by: Kimberly McMillan, ALC Teacher

Summer is here!! What you do with your summertime can be rewarding and daunting all at the same time.

Now this idea is not my own. I got it from a discussion with some other homeschool moms. The discussion was about the things they do during the summer and the conversation morphed into more or less this idea.

Take some time to sit down with your kid(s) and talk about ideas for activities. Then help them make a list of things the family wants to do over the summer. This becomes your check off page. Then post it someplace out of the way, but easily accessible like on the inside of a cabinet door in the kitchen.

Here are some suggestions for your list:

Water balloon fights in the back yard once a month (June, July, August)

Museum day

Girdwood playground

Girdwood trails for hiking

Hatcher's Pass hiking

Drive to Denali and adventure for a weekend

Blow bubbles in the yard

Add food coloring and blow bubbles on paper for art

Go for a bike ride

Go for a walk

Find three new parks to visit

Take a day trip to Whittier

Go to a stream and throw rocks, twigs, or other things to see how they move or don't move in the water. Even older kids like to do this.

Take a day trip to the Seward Sealife Center

Whatever you decide to put on your list, remember that they don't have to be huge events or excursions, just fun family time. Your kids will remember making the list and trying to check off as many as possible. Move any items you didn't get to do to next year's list. This is a great way to find out more about your child's interests and make great memories at the same time. Have a fun and memorable summer!

PACE Activities and Events

PACE would like to be able to provide more activities for our families, but we need help!

If you would be willing to design and lead an activity, PACE will provide guidance and assistance with purchasing supplies and entry fees for events. Some ideas include bowling, swimming, beachcombing, cooking, or maybe you are very creative and would be able to share your talent! Contact your teacher for more details.
